

The solution to generate structured XML documents from any ERP output

Generate structured XML documents from your ERP and automate business communication between organizations

Reduce costs by generating XML without modifying your IT infrastructure

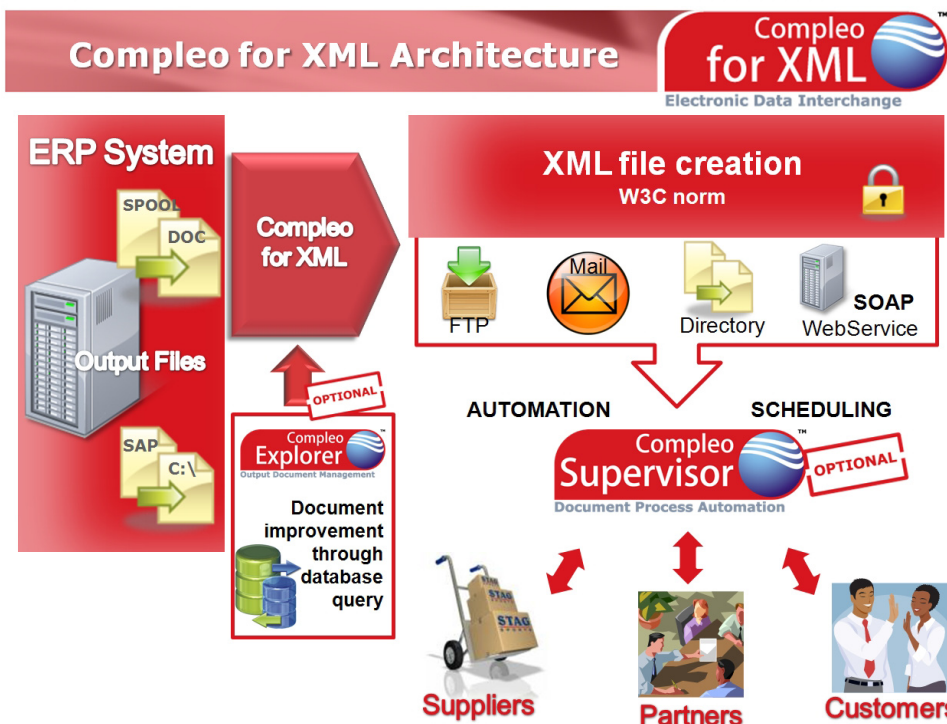

Compleo for XML makes your IT infrastructure competitive by adding the ability to generate structured XML documents from ERP Outputs. Generate XML from your applications running on any ERP (SAP, JDE, Infor, Oracle...), automate the process and save money with Electronic Data Interchange technology.

Quit paper: switch to electronic formats with complete automation

Compleo for XML helps your company to quit paper by creating documents in electronic formats. Generate and automatically distribute business critical information with your customers, partners and vendors in XML format. Save time on manual process, avoid rekeying mistakes and improve information exchange between organizations.

Benefits of XML Technology

- Extend your IT infrastructure capabilities.
- A popular file format used in various technologies to exchange data.
- Successfully implemented in various industries.
- Enhances Interoperability between Information System and software.
- Improve business process efficiency.
