

NEW RELEASE: Compleo Archivor 4.8 supports all common document types, is 10 times faster and can securely publish documents to the web. Archiving and publishing documents generated by ERPs, such as SAP and JDE, or platforms like Power-I and Windows has never been easier.

Los Angeles; Boston; London; Nîmes; Mumbai - May 31, 2010

Symtrax today announced version 4.8 of Compleo Archivor; a component of their Compleo Suite output management software used for creation, formatting, distribution and archiving of ERP documents such as invoices, purchase orders and payroll. With version 4.8 users can now store documents in virtually any format, including Excel, XML, PDF and BMP. Archived documents are easily accessed for viewing, printing or emailing via a web browser.

Archivor 4.8 has an optimized database structure that increases search response time by a factor of 10 and improved document security rules. Security can now be set at an individual level so that, for example, a search of invoices would result in your chief accountant retrieving all invoices while a branch manager would only see invoices from his branch. Additionally, document life cycle management improvements automate document specific rules for active archiving, sunseting and deleting. And Archivor 4.8 improves compliance with legal regulations by allowing the tracing of all the documents to their original reports.

"The new secure publishing feature that lets users manually or automatically publish archived documents to a secure URL, is very exciting. With it our clients can give suppliers or employees limited time, secure access to any document via a web browser" said Bernard Aldebert, CEO of Symtrax. "and the user interface is more flexible; it can be configured to present only the documents relevant to the specific user and include client logos. We have listened carefully to our current users and put in the features they asked for".
