

New Product Release: Compleo Layout

Modernize, Redesign and Enrich ERP End Documents and Business Forms with Just a Few Clicks

Los Angeles; Boston; London; Nîmes; Mumbai - August 30, 2010

Symtrax today announced the release of Compleo Layout; a component of their Compleo Suite output management software. Compleo Layout allows you to modernize, redesign and improve currently formatted ERP documents and business forms easily and intuitively using a powerful visual interface.

The graphical interface allows documents and forms to be enriched with barcodes, images, graphics and textual enhancements while leaving desirable original formatting intact. Redesigning templates can be done without programming or graphic design expertise.

Compleo Layout also facilitates the changing of a PDF’s layout, look and feel, and text properties without the need of expensive editing tools. For example, replace current content, change the font type and size, and enhance tables with color.

In addition, adding external data when processing documents is possible by querying an external database (email address, additional company data ...). Compleo Layout empowers marketing and service staff to better communicate with customers and vendors without the need for the IT staff to reprogram an ERP’s original output.

“Customers can add an external document and attach it to the working document. For example they can add licensing terms and conditions to purchase orders or hazardous handling instructions to an invoice” says Bernard Aldebert, Symtrax’s Chief Executive Officer. “Compleo Layout is extremely powerful yet very easy to learn, I encourage you to ask for a live demonstration and see it by yourself”.
